The Kings at Brill

THE EARLY HISTORY OF A BUCKINGHAMSHIRE VILLAGE
IN THE FOREST OF BERNWOOD

Before 1066 Edward the Confessor built a hall at Brill – and for the next 230 years his successors came for the hunting. Henry III then ordered building work which made it a court fit for his new Queen Eleanor.

Michael Farley's new book gathers all the evidence – from medieval royal documents to modern archaeology – to paint a vivid picture of life in Brill's royal manor.

PUBLISHED IN MAY 2022.

240-page large-format paperback,
with 71 colour photographs, maps and plans.
£18 plus £4.50 postage

Records of Buckinghamshire 2023

'Everything is older than you think' – excavation reports from Olney to Datchet.
PLUS an assessment of the Emberton Mercury, Anglo-Saxon and 14th-century Quarrendon, and 1000 years of Chetwode Mill.

PUBLISHED IN MAY 2023.
